NEW ZEALAND A PAINTED COUNTRY

The intertwined themes of natural beauty and artistic representation of that beauty led Robinson to invite more than thirty New Zealand artists of this generation to contribute works inspired by their chosen region along with a short-written piece expressing their thoughts on the region. In Robinson's words, the resultant book reflects a journey that takes the reader from South to North through the eyes of these contemporary artists, who number among this country's most popular. The publication also acts as a portfolio, providing insights into the wider spectrum of styles and techniques used to capture colour and light, to illuminate personal connection to landscape.

LOOKING FOR THE LIGHT*Landscape Photographs of New Zealand

New Zealand born landscape photographer Peter Latham presents this epic collection of his most popular gallery fine-art prints, together with numerous new images of the New Zealand landscape, never released before. Attaining success for his photography in art galleries and with thousands of collectors worldwide, Peter's poetic eye and unique presentation has earned him a coveted reputation in the elusive art market. Personal background stories and photographs accompany many images, whilst a special "Behind The Scenes" chapter illustrates what Peter endured to achieve their capture. This affords the reader a privileged insight into this remarkable portfolio, one which will be treasured for generations. Peter's passion for New Zealand is evident in his original portrayal of the land from Cape Reinga to Stewart Island, often returning to the same scene many times over several years, all in search of the perfect light. As Peter says, A degree of madness helps a lot! Many of the 230 colour photographs in this book are spectacular double page panoramas, carefully selected to represent the best of Peter's vision and his extraordinary life-long quest to capture this land at its finest.

TE ARAROA*Walking New Zealand's 3,000-kilometer trail

In January 2015 Mark Watson left sunny Cape Reinga to walk and photograph the length of Te Araroa. The journey would take him nearly six months, through constantly changing landscape, geology, and many different kinds of forest. He walked urban pathways, farm tracks, beaches, roads, regional and national parks and reached Bluff amid winter storms in July.

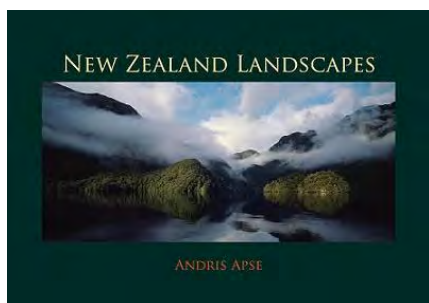

Mark's visual record of the trails scenery is presented in nine geographic sections matching the structure of the trail, with introductory text and captioned photographs to describe the landscape, diversity, culture and history of each region.

Te Araroa, the long trail, was established by Geoff Chapple and officially opened in December 2011 by Governor-General, Sir Jerry Mateparae. Mark Watson's book features a Foreword by Geoff Chapple, founder, Te Araroa.

NEW ZEALAND: EYE ON THE LANDSCAPE

The distinguishing feature of this book is that the images used will not be the work of one photographer, but rather a collection of the best images from a wide range of landscape photographers.

The inspiration for this concept has been the extraordinary work that is exhibited by members of the Photographic Society of New Zealand. The majority of photographs created by their members is hardly seen and never published. The best of it, however, is of the highest quality and often provides a fresh and original view of a much-photographed country.

CRAIG POTTON NEW ZEALAND

Craig Potton rose to prominence as a photographer in the late 1980s, with a distinct and original view of the landscape of Aotearoa. He was a photographer with little interest in a sentimentalised or romantic view of the land, but rather pursued a less compromising and more muscular vision that sought to convey this country's remarkable landscape in a real light.

Craig Potton has become one of New Zealand's most distinguished landscape photographers, famous for his moody, often dramatic images that signal a deeply-felt connection with the wild parts of New Zealand.

This book collects together many of his most celebrated images in one place. The images range from his celebrated aerial photography, especially that of the Southern Alps and Fiordland, and of the volcanoes of the Central North Island, his beautifully composed and complex forest interiors, his gentle seascapes, and also those from the rural parts of New Zealand.

NEW ZEALAND LANDSCAPES
NORTHLAND TO ANTARCTICA

Voted one of the top five places to visit in the world by Lonely Planet, the geographical diversity and startling beauty of New Zealand lures photographers and film makers as well as tourists. "If locations were awarded Oscars, New Zealand would scoop the lot," as a movie reviewer remarked.

This book is a photographic celebration of that diverse and very often impressive landscape. Grant Sheehan has recorded his own camera views from Northland to Stewart Island and beyond, to New Zealand's Antarctic territory and her islands in the Southern Ocean. From the road, from the air and at sea, the tranquillity and scope of open often remote spaces are captured. The scenery and wildlife shown here underlines why New Zealand is consistently on the global 'must-see' list.

And as an extra dimension, the images have been given a striking soundtrack by musician Rhian Sheehan. The CD is included on the facing page.

Includes Music CD, eight tracks, 40 minutes duration, written especially for the book by New Zealand composer Rhian Sheehan.

EYE IN THE SKY: A DRONE ABOVE NEW ZEALAND

Photographer and publisher Grant Sheehan has been captivated with aerial photography for many years. Drone photography is an obvious next step and he started exploring possibilities as soon as the camera technology caught up with the remote-controlled drone.

This book explores the country from the air — ranging from 10ft to 400ft — in a way that is both unique and compelling; from wide elevated vistas of landscapes and land forms, to close intimate portraits of buildings and textures that conventional aircraft would struggle to capture. The first of its kind in New Zealand, this book adds an extra dimension to the idea of the classic New Zealand photo book appealing to a wide range of tastes, from those interested in both aerial and drone photography, tourists, lovers of landscape and to those keen to see New Zealand in a new way.

Each photograph is accompanied by the height and GPS location of where it was taken.

CUSHIONS

Cushions are a very "in" fashionable accessory. The inspiration for these cushions comes from the kākahu (Maori cloaks) worn on ceremonial occasions.

Apart from use in the home they could be used in a reception area or as extra support on your computer chair.

They come in two sizes. The large has a suede backing with a zip and removable inner whereas the smaller size has permanent filling and "fur" on both sides.

Available in: CR – Cream, GR – Grey

Branding - we could brand a small swing tag like you find on some upmarket cushions.

ECOFELT GROW BAG

An ecofelt grow bag is made out of 100% post-consumer recycled plastic bottles. Use it to grow vegetables, herbs and flowers. Place earth inside and plant your plants directly into the growbag, then place on top of the saucer. It is actually better for your plants than the conventional clay or plastic containers as felt allows roots to breathe, retains water and will allow for a gradual release of water. Essentially ecofelt bags are awesome because they are durable, washable, re-useable and ecofriendly. The ecofelt growbag comes flat-packed with a saucer inside and packaged in a biodegradable plastic bag. Growbag material is 2mm thickness felt with coloured stitching detail. Saucer is made from 100% biodegradable plant fibre. Flat pack size: 28 x 22cm Saucer: D16.5mm
